

National park Iguassu is a park which the first part is in Argentina and the second is in Brasilia. This park was created in 1934. In Iguassu live 400 spicies of birds, about 70 spices of animals and more than 100 spices of butterflies. There are 2000 spicies of plants.

▶ National park Iguassu

Iguassu

translated from Guarani means "big water".

There are 2000 species of plants, in particular, one of the endangered species of trees rocks Aspidosperma polyneuron. Phoebe, holly, nogoplodnik lately becoming increasingly rare. There are tsedrela, arauca-

Iguassu is a national park of Argentina but in fact it is a national park of Brasilia too. The first part is in Argentina and the second is in Brasilia.

This park was created in 1934 around the waterfall Iguassu.

People lived there 8000 years BC. They were engaged in fishing, hunting and gathering, and later agriculture.

Orchid

Araukaria

Amazon

Tirica

The fauna of the park includes several rare and threatened species: jaguar, jaguarundi, South American Tapir, Ocelot, tirica, ant-eater, the Black-fronted Piping Guan, the Harpy Eagle, and

Jaguar